Lake Wangary Primary School Newsletter

National Reconciliation Week celebrates achievements in our journey towards reconciliation and is held from 27th May to 3rd June.

This year we celebrate the milestones and mark significant anniversaries of 50 years since the 1967 referendum, and 25 years since the Mabo decision.

The week reminds us that big changes take persistence and courage, and together 'Let's take the next steps.'

The Year 5/6/7 class have discussed Sorry Day and Reconciliation. We watched some advertisements, videos and celebrations depicting the journey so far and how each generation has worked at making a difference and how this group of students can take the next steps. Students were asked to make a design telling their story of how they can help take the next steps towards recognition.

Let's take the next step!
Our community will be a better place if we work together with effort and respect to stop racism. Take a stand for your generation. Help reconciliation by respecting all cultures. Cali

I am going to take the next steps by learning about the problems, helping everybody and giving everyone the same rights.

Nola and myself met with the architect and the Facility Manager on Wednesday to discuss the design, layout and requirements. We look forward to seeing the drawn up design which we will share with both sites governing council and staff before proceeding.

Next week the school will be holding a 'Book Fair'. Students will get an opportunity to look at the books etc and create a wish list to take home. If you would like them to purchase a book(s) please send them to school with the money by Friday the 9th of June. Friendship skills:

Parents and carers are children's first and most important teachers when it comes to relationships. The ways you relate to your children and the guidance you provide helps develop children's social skills. You can help children develop and maintain friendships by modelling effective social skills, providing opportunities for children to practice interacting with others, and offering support when they go through difficulties. Taking the role of a coach helps children learn the skills they need for themselves.

Make Time to Play: Parents and carers can improve their children's social skills by playing with them regularly. Letting children choose and lead the play allow you to be playful with them and encourages them to practise skills for cooperation and negotiation. Making time for play helps strengthen your relationship with them as well as their skills. Avoid criticising and make it fun!

Allow your child to try all sorts of different activities:

Children who have a wide range of interests are more likely to have something in common with others and so find it easier to make friends and get along.
